PANINTELLIGENCE WINS SAGE INNOVATION AWARD

Shackleton investee, Panintelligence, has won the Sage Innovation Award at this year's annual Sage Partner of the Year Awards.

Panintelligence was shortlisted for two awards, the Sage ISV Partner of the Year Award and Sage Innovation Award, by the international software organisation. The awards recognise the innovation and expertise demonstrated by Sage's Business Partners in creating solutions that add value to Sage's software. Panintelligence's software transforms users' data into an interactive and responsive dashboard, which improves reporting across Sage financial software. It has proven very popular with the developer community in meeting the needs of customers who require immediate access to all their data in a single view.

Zandra Moore, Sales Director at Panintelligence, said, "Being nominated for two awards was extremely gratifying as Sage recognised we were producing software that is both innovative and beneficial to the partner community and their users."

Panintelligence is a Leeds based software company that was originally part of Pancredit Systems. It became an independent company in March 2014 when the former parent company was acquired by the Equiniti Group. Since Shackleton helped to launch it as a separate company, Panintelligence has grown strongly, doubling the size of the business in less than a year.

Mike Cripps Managing Director of Panintelligence, said “This is a great achievement for the whole team at Panintelligence. Every day business leaders are dealing with growing volumes of data which makes it difficult for them to get access to the right information in a timely manner.”
